"WE KNOW HOW"

Even WE Admit

that there are more important things in the world than having the right clothes. We realize that, as the poet says, "A man's a man for a' that."

But, unfortunately, people WILL judge a fellow by the way he looks, and even more unfortunately, lots of fellows don't look as well-dressed as they might. It isn't because they don't want to, or because they don't try, it's because they don't know how or where to get garments that will bring out the best of them and hide the worst of them.

We don't say that we CAN, because it wouldn't be modest, but we're morally sure that we MIGHT show you a suit that would cause the first friend you met to congratulate you on your improved appearance. COME and SEE.

Fly Screens and the Stores.

Fly screen time is 'pretty 'nearly hers. It is the wise man who puts up his window screens and his door screens in advance of the vernal invasion of the pests, instead of waiting until they have taken possession. It is easier to keep the fly out than to get him out, once he has entered.

Individuals consulting their own comfort, can usually be relied upon to take the precaution of screening their own dwellings. But the public health would be much better safeguarded if fly screens were in more general use in stores where food is kept for sale.

Atlanta, Ga., recognized this fact, when on the first of April it began the enforcement of a city ordinance 'requiring the use [of fly screens. The ordinance applies particularly to groceries, meat markets, produce stores and other places of business 'to which flies are naturally attracted and from which they should be rigidly excluded, as a health measure.

A custom of this kind [put in force either by ordinance or by common consent, would prove its value in any The right of publisher is reserved city by keeping down the disease and to decline any advertisement or other mortality figures. There could have been two elements united which might have [conspired to give Beckham a race, but both these have been eliminated from the contest-the liquor question and Federal patronage. The liquor question has been entirely settled by the passage of the Webb bill, and the distillers and brewers of Kentucky have too much sense to back any candidate for the Senate financially just for the fun of it, and President Wilson will see that the Federal patronage of Kentucky shall not be used against Beckham, even if there was a disposition to use it. Keeping the Body in Repair

Nature intended that the body should do its own repairing-and it would do so were it not for the fact that most of us live other than a natural life.

Nature didn't intend that we should wear corsets, tight collars or shoes, nor live in badly ventilated and draughty houses, nor eat and drink some of the things that we do, nor ride in street cars when we should walk. The consequence is that the body when it gets out of order must look for outside help to make the necessary repairs.

CHOICE INTERURBAN HOME SI

BETHLEHEM PLACE ADDITION TO PARIS, KENTUCKY

There are fourteen desirable suburban home sites in Bethlehem Place. These small farms contain from three and onehalf acres down to three-fourths of an acre. The land is most desirably located, being but two city blocks from the Interurban line, and the car fare to ride down into the city of Paris is only five cents. The rear of this property abuts on the right-of-way of the L. & N. Railroad, and is but a short walk to the south yards of the L. & N. Railroad, making the addition most admirably located for home-owners.

By building a house on one of these sites you are enabled to have your own cow and horse, raise your chickens and hogs, and with the garden, fruit, etc., that can be raised, will make the owner a comfortable living.

Liberal terms of payment will be extended to purchasers. Come in and talk it over and see the land and we believe that we can point a way whereby you can soon be comfortably housed in your own home, convenient of access to the Interurban railway.

HOME.

The word Home loses much of it's true significance if it does not include ownership. An abiding place may satisfy transient needs if it minister to physical comforts, but a Home hallowed by the sound of childish voices and the music of mother's lullabies should be all that the name implies. The joy of living is enhanced, the exhuberance of young manhood is unrestrained, when the freedom of a Home, all your own, may be offered. It cannot be disputed that upon the acquisition of property, however small in amount, a quickening of the heart throbs for everything having in view the welfare and prosperity of the community is observed. One of the strong and convincing talking points respecting a piece of property is that it is located in the midst of people who own their own Homes.

There are many persons in Bourbon and adjoining counties to-day who are chained by the slavery of rent paying, when they might own their own Homes. A thrill of ecstacy is felt when a young couple, who have recently joined heart and hand, sees their names as grantees in a deed to a Home. Life seems brighter than before, hope paints the future in roseate colors, and daily toil is approached with a new zest.

There is a mistaken belief prevalent that only persons with a considerable accumulation of money are able to own a Home. It is our purpose to show a large number of deserving citizens how the yoke of servitude to the burdensome rent bills may be lifted and an investment be made of such amount where it will increase in value as the years roll by. If a small amount is at hand as an initial payment, the remainder can be met the same as rent, and the citizen who has been swelling the bank account of the landlord, may become the landlord himself.

Watch for announcement of date of sale of the fourteen beautiful homesite lots in Bethlehem Place.

LIBERAL TERMS TO PURCHASERS! DON'T PAY RENT-OWN YOUR HOME!

ARE YOU A RENTER?

The question is often asked why perwith an established business or with a comfortable salary, are living in rented houses? The question is oftener asked than satisfactorily answered. The most common answer, when such question is propounded, is framed into words such as—"I am not able to pay for a home," or "I am afraid I may meet misfortunes so I cannot keep up my payments, and then I would lose what I have paid." To the shrinking one who has no faith in himself or in his ability to meet conditions as they arise, these excuses have some weight and they justify him as he thinks in continuing his unbusiness-like course of swelling the bank account of the landlord through his monthly payment of rent. If, however, he stops and reflects that he loses every twelve-month by such course not only the amount represented by his yearly rent bill, less interest, taxes, etc., but the increased value which the year has added to the property, he awakens to a full realization that the time is ripe NOW to adopt a new and better philosophy to guide his business steps.

If the acquisition of a Home depended upon the payment of a considerable lump sum at a time of the purchase, then a great many deserving persons must of necessity become reconciled to the slavery of rent-paying during the natural life. However, a message of hope and cheer may be sounded broadcast to give heart to the despairing and encouragement to the downcast.

Through the medium of payments any one who is able to keep in good repute with his landlord by the prompt payment of rent bills may have the shackles of a grinding servility forever lifted and live in the free atmosphere of a self-respect which comes through Home-owning.

Instead of not being able to buy a Home, no one who desires to become useful to the generation in which he lives or influential to the community where he resides can afford NOT to own a Home, if he has reasonable assurance of an income equal to the slight increase of obligation which such ownership imposes.

A Great Opportuniy For Buying Silks at a Low Price

We bought from an Eastern manufacturer a collection of Fancy Silks suitable for one-piece Dresses, Evening Gowns, Waists, House Dresses and Trimming purposes. They are all 24 inches in width of a varied assortment of shades, also in many different designs, principally stripes, floral designs, geometrical designs. These are Silks which would retail at $1.00 per yard-we will give you choice of about 2,000 yards, at per yard—

Owing to the very low price and the impossibility to record on these, no samples will be cut nor can they be taken on approval or brought back for exchange. They will go so fast that only outright sales of these will be made. This sale of Silks will continue until this collection is sold out entirely. We would urge an early call to secure good selections.

Succeeds Himself As County Treasurer and Custodian of Garth and Hamilton Funds.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Bourbon Fiscal Court yesterday the franchise presented by the Central Kentucky Natural Gas Co., granting the use of the county roads to extend its pipe lines to Paris, was passed, and the proposition will go over until the next meeting.

Col. Tom Stewart, of Winchester, representative of the company, was before the court yesterday and presented the franchise which was along the same lines as that granted [by the Paris City Council, but owing to the length of time given the body to consider the proposition it was deemed advisable to table it for the time at least. There is no probability that the Fiscal Court will refuse to grant the franchise, the members seemingly being heartily in favor of the project, but upon advice of County Attorney George Batterton, who seeking to guard : the interests of the county, asked that he te given a little time to go over the franchise as presented to

According to Mr. Batterton there are no objectionable features other than a clause which would give the company the exclusive right along the county roads, and further that the franchise does not state upon which road the pipe lines shall enter the city. These, he contends, will be adjusted to meet the favor of the officials of the company as well as the court. The matter will come up for consideration at the May session of the court, when with the proper concessions the franchise will be granted.

The Board of Trustees of the W. W. Plans to Erect New Hotel Here. The fine Clark county farm recently purchased from Garrard Watts, of Fayette county, by N. H. Witherspoon is better known as the old Cluke place, where Col. Roy Stuart Cluke raised a regiment and joined the Confederate army under Gen. John Morgan. Col. Cicero Coleman and the late Major R S. Bullock were Lieutenant Colonel and Major respectively in the same regiment.

Col. Cluke had been a gallant soldier previously both in the Texas war of independence and in the Mexican War which followed. IAfter his death the place became the property of his widow, Mrs. Kate Kerr Cluke, and her son, Roy Stuart Cluke, Jr., but it has been owned by Mr. Watts, of Fayette county, for many years. Many noted people have been enter-

Fire Results from Explosion

The explosion of a coal oil stove caused a considerable blaze in the apartments occupied by Bruce Huddleston over the store of Harry Ogden about six o'clock Wednesday morning. The explosion followed the attempt of Huddleston to light the stove and for a time it looked as though a serious fire would be the outcome.

A prompt response on the part of the fire department probably saved an entire block of the business section from destruction. Two lines of hose were run into the building and the second floor flooded. By a desperate effort the flames were confined to the room in which they started.

How to Remove Mildew.

To remove mildew from linen take some yellow soap and rub it well into the linen, then scrape some chalk very fine and rub that in also. Lay the linen on the grass and as it dries wet it again and again until the mildew disappears. Another way is to mix soft soap and powdered starch with half the quantity of salt and the juice of a lemon. Apply the mixture with a brush and lay the linen out on the grass for a few frosty nights until the stain disappears.

PLACES WHERE WOMEN DRESS AS MEN, AND VICE VERSA.

Alpine Dairy Malds, at Their Work, Wear Masculine Dress, as Do the Females in the Extreme North -Brigands in Skirts.

There are places in the world where women dress in men's clothing and men don women's apparel.

Even in Paris there are women dressed in cheap, coarse, masculine atpeace soon, and will therefore proceed tire, working as teamsters and day to replenish their stock farms. Del laborers. While it is against the law, "Well, no. She's rather formal. Al- Rio will be in the Blue Grass country the police wink at the fact and allow them to earn peaceably their daily

In Persia, in some of the interior parts, the women wear the strangest, oddest trouser garments. They seem to like them, too, from the fact that they cling to them in spite of all efforts to make them don feminine at-

Then there are the Alpine dairy maids who dress as men when they go about their work and look pretty, if we are inclined to take evidence from the numbers of men who yearly persuade them to cast off their masculine dress and put on more clinging costumes. But then their eyes are so bright and their cheeks so red that they couldn't really look homely in anything they might choose to wear.

Again, far in the north, where it is freezing cold most of the time, and people dress to be comfortable and not to look pretty, the women are actually forced into trousers to keep warm.

The ancient women warriors always wore trousers. But their reasons were half masculine in manner and appearance, and dressed to accentuate their qualities. They had to make themselves into fierce looking creatures to terrify the men on the opposing side, and from all acounts they succeeded admirably.

As for the stronger sex, there still seem to be men in existence who wear women's garb and enjoy it. In certain parts of Greece, Spain, and Albania there are bands of desperate brigands who, when they are decked out for attacks on strangers or neighbors, look for all the world like grand opera ballet girls, in their short, brightly colored skirts, which are made very full, and sometimes even ruffled a bit. They seem tremendously proud of their attire, and rival bands strive to surpass each other in vividness of patterns and newness of Wonder of Common Things. I live, in this little cottage that seems to have alighted, like a bird, on the slope of this gentle hill. Red and white peonies grow before the door, enriching the air with their fragrance. They charm both me and the bees. In yonder bush beside the door a chipping-sparrow sits upon her nest; and in the swinging branch of the elm tree overhead two orioles rear their brood, and as they flash by, their golden colors delight the human beings that watch them. Look over that stone wall, and mark how its flat line gives an incomparable effect to the landscape. See our New England fields dotted with New England elms; and far beyond see those white-sailed schooners scud before the boisterous wind. The farmer's boy, who fetches milk and eggs, left me that nosegay of wild flowers. Look! Look! See how the whiteness of that cloud glorifles the blue of the sky. Is it not strange that all these things, that go about their own business, should, by the way, perform a work of supererogation and give us so much unnecessary pleasure?-H. D. Sedgwick, in the Atlantic.

Way Out.

The easiest way to avoid argument over the pronunciation of a word is to use a synonym, as those who say "station" instead of "depot" know. But few would go so far as the carpenter who, in conversation with a friend on a street car, answered a query as to his work by saying: "I'm working in one of those automobile barns."

The ideal carriage horse is the American trotting bred horse, with size, speed, courage, and the true trotting gait, with plenty of knee and hock action. In addition he must have a clean cut head and neck, style and finish, plenty of substance without coarseness.

Recognizing the demand for this class of horses, I selected Taylor Simmons 23489, a young horse which fills all the requirements of the typical carriage horse. If the theory that "like begets like" be true, he will produce horses of this type when mated with good mares. Through his veins flow the blood of the greatest trotting families. THEATRICAL.

AMONG LYMAN HOWES' TRAVELS Among the many characteristics of life in Holland to be presented by Lyman H. Howe at the Paris Grand on Thursday, April 10, is that showing what inveterate smokers; the Holvember. With his family he went to landers are. It is the indulgence in this habit, combined with the peculiar climate, that makes them the calmest, most deliberate and phiegmatic race on earth.

Tobacco smoke is called their second breath and a cigar or pipe is in evidence with them so incessantly that it is like a sixth finger of their hand.
So confirmed is this habit, that many Dutchmen go to sleep at night with their pipes between their lips so they can find them immediately on awakening in the morning, and light them before rising. The boatmen-a type of which is presented in Mr. Howe's series-measure distances not by the number of miles from place to place but by so many pipes of tobacco smoked enroute.

For these reasons it is perhaps natural to expect that the world's champion smoker was a Hollander. His name was Meinheer Van Klaes. He consumed on an average one hundred and fifty grams of tobacco every day, yet he lived to the prime age of 98, His last will and testament was extraordinary. After bequeathing his worldly goods to his relatives, he directed how he should be buried as follows: "I wish that all my friends who are smokers shall be especially invited to my funeral. Each of them shall receive a package of tobacco and two pipes, and they are requested to smoke uninterruptedly during the funeral ceremonies. My body shall be enclosed in a coffin lined with the wood of my old cigar boxes. Beside me in my casket shall be laid my favorite meerschaum, a box of matches and a package of tobacco. Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powdercream of tartar, phosphate, and alum-and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

Bread made with

Royal Cream of Tartar Powder: 100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder:

681/4 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder:

673/4 Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.
